„Locas y Atrapadas“

1. Short Synopsis

Five attractive young women, trapped in an elevator, confess their bitter life experiences caused by evil men and society. Even though their facades might not show it, these women have suffered through the worst and as a result, they made decisions whose consequences are either shockingly hilarious or downright horrifying

2. Long Synopsis

The Movie starts by introducing each of the female protagonists separately at a greater hotel's check in, where a metrosexual receptionist interrogates them and accidentally leaves inappropriate comments.

While the ladies are checking in, the hotel's manager is having an argument with the maintenance employees who have had trouble with the elevator. Due to a misunderstanding, one of the warning signs that were placed next to the elevators was removed which led to the five protagonists entering it, not knowing that it is malfunctioning.

Once they get inside, the elevator suddenly starts to quickly lose altitude, causing panic among the ladies.

The elevator stops eventually but the ladies inside are starting to lose it – they pass out, they toss their shoes to one another and they insult each other whenever they get an opportunity to do so.

As time passes the women start to introduce themselves to each other together with telling stories of what experiences they've made with men and society recently.

Their stories contain everything from bulwark tenacity, cheating and homosexuality up to violence, prostitution and even rape.

After listening to the stories each of the women had to tell, the five women make a vow, swearing that if they manage to get out of the elevator alive, they will fight back towards everything that prevented them from being happy and make a change.

3. Agency's statement

„Locas y Atrapadas“ (EN Crazy n' Trapped – DE Verrückt und Eingesperrt) is a movie which strongly reminds of the successful „Desperate Housewives“ series.

Every single one of the five female protagonists in the movie has a unique story to tell which keeps the viewers at the edge of their seat – mostly by playing emotion carousel with the one watching the movie.

The stories they tell will either lead to one breaking out in tears of laughter or one feeling horrible for misjudging the featured protagonist before hearing out what they had to say about their past.

These emotional scenes abruptly change from one to another, there is nothing in between.

As the movie mostly consists of multiple flashbacks, the scenes in which the maintenance employees try to free the trapped ladies from the malfunctioning elevator have an effect equal to what one calls a “cliffhanger”.

In situations caused by these cliffhangers, it's hard to let go of just about any movie as one's curiosity drives one to wonder about how these stories will proceed.

The movie combines brilliant acting, a diverse story, beautiful women, a bright sense of humor and dramatic aspects to near perfection.
